

1. Roots to Roots, Roots and Roots.
2. Routes to Roots, Roots and Roots.
3. Roots to Roots, Roots and Roots.

This book is organized around themes, real and symbolic, like the longing for home, journeys and relationships with host societies. Lemke Sieglinde identifies these themes as Roots, Roots and the Metaphor of the Riot. This book uses this concept of Roots, Roots and the Metaphor of the Riot. This pages in this book are joined together in three movements:

on a junction in north London.

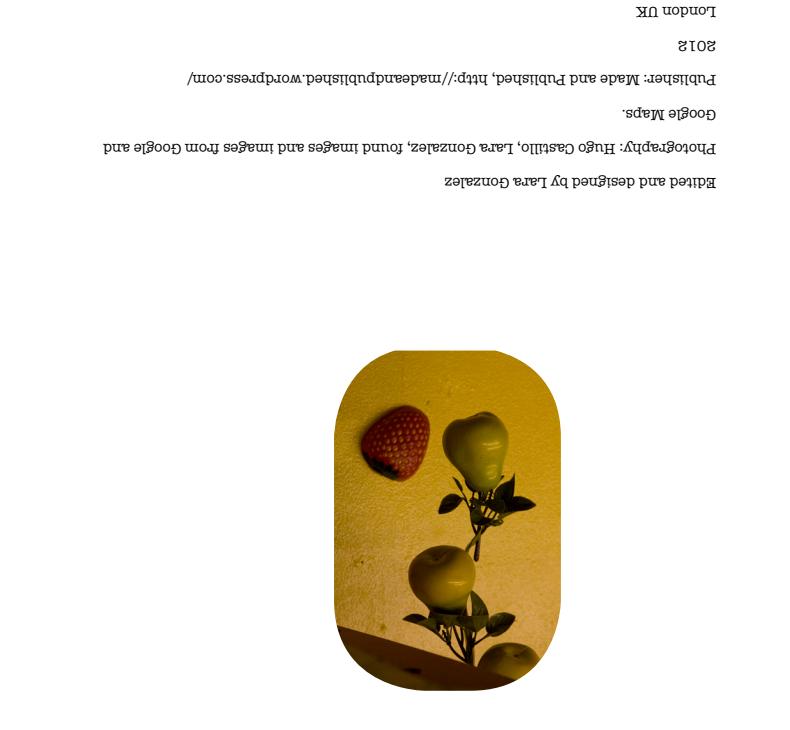

MARKET PLACE

There is also another Pueblo Paisa that is also a recreation of a lost place. This Pueblo Paisa takes the form of a market located in a junction in north London.

This park is a recreation of a traditional Andean town. It is an attempt to evoke another place and time, it aims to lost through the movement of the population.

Pueblo Paisa is the name of a recreational park in Medellin, Colombia. The park is a recreation of Colombian Andean culture and preserve a part of Colombian identity that has been lost through the movement of the population.

Published: Made and Published, <http://madeandpublished.wordpress.com/>
 Photography: Hugo Casillo, Lara González, found images and images from Google and Designed and designed by Lara González

